fertilizer ever offered to the farmer—combining all the stimulating qualities of Peruvian Guano, and the ever durable fertilizing properties of Bones. In fine dry powder, prepared expressly

After nineteen years' experience by the farmers of Maryland and Virginia in the use of "Excelsior," it is their unanimous opinion that an application of 100 pounds of "Excelsior" is equal to from 100 to 300 pounds of any other fertilizer or guano, and, therefore, fully 100 per cent UNIFORM QUALITY GUARANTEED BY THE MANUFACTURERS.

Farmers should see that every bag is branded as above, with the ANALYSIS and OUR NAME in RED LETTERS. All others are counterfeits. Price $50 per ton.

Having lived for some months in Chestertown, during which time he had become a great favorite, he began to give to the neighbors some insight into his past life. He spoke of having a command in the Federal army, and having been associated with the Mexican Republic during the war that ended in the execution of Maximilian at Queretaro in 1867. During this time he had taken an active part in the capture of Bagdad, near the Rio Grande river. At that time he came into possession of Mexican securities, forming the basis of his wealth, and which had afterwards been augmented by successful speculation. Among the trophies of his campaign he had an elegant outfit of a Mexican rider, comprising silver and gold mounted saddle and bridle, and gold spurs, which were a pover failing chiest of gold spurs, which were a never failing object of curiosity to his visitors. On the 4th of July, 1869, he was invited by leading democratic po! iticians to deliver an oration at the Court heavy crops of wheat, corn and grass, and is not House at Chestertown. His known abilities and extensive fund of information were a guaraptee that the effort would be one of great in terest, and a large crowd gathered. Previous to this he had not committed himself politically, but the general opinion was that he was of dem ocratic proclivities. On the occasion of this ora tion he dissipated all such ideas, and declared himself a republican and denounced State rights and other democratio tenets in a way that entirely disgusted democracy. From that day the republicans took him up and he affiliated with them, "stumping" the county in their in terests, and declaring his views in an outspoken manner, such as the Eastern Shore had not hitherto been acoustomed to. 112 then estab lished a republican weekly paper called the Freeman's Journal, which he issued for nearly a year. In it he ventilated the most liberal opinions, and in its columns declared himself personally responsible for every assertion that he made. This venture was not remunerative, and his power-press, the first that had ever been seen in that county, was seized by the manufacturers from whom he had bought it, and the light of the Freeman's Journal thus flickered out and was seen no more. What had become of the immense wealth this man had claimed to have is not knowe. During the time this paper was issued it was bitterly opposed to Senator Vickers; in fact, it was the opposition organ, and its utterances were of the most scathing, not to say villifying nature. After closing out the paper Crawford started a perfumery factory in Chestertown. This venture was also a failure, and poor Crawford was also sold out at sheriff's sale. He then left the country, and rumor brought back the news that he was running a faro bank in Philadelphia. This rumer was never verified, however, and perhaps was based upon the fact that whilst in Chestertown Col. Crawford kept a faro lay out, and in a friendly way, and for the consideration of the chances of winning, initiated a number of residents of that cheerful village into the in tricacies of the game. This statement is based upon the assertions of a gentleman who has een the game in progress in Crawford's house. The most wonderful stories are told of his versatility and of his ability to adapt himself to circumstances. His tund of information was unbounded, and he discussed sugery with surgeons, medicine with doctors, law with lawyers, soa-manship with sailors, fruit culture with peach growers, l'terature with authors, science with scientists, and finance with bankers, and in all there subjects seemed to be as well posted as those with whom he talked. He was also practical in his acquirements. When he bought the outlit for his paper he declined the services of s mechanic to put together his power press, and put it up himsolf. He set his own type, composing at the case, and in this way was the suthor of many editorials which have a place in the scrap books of the dwellers of the Eastern Shore to day, and are referred to by their owners as inimtable speciemens of purity of language and forcible expression. Personally, Col. Crawford is described as being over six feet in height, weighing over 200 pounds, broad shoulders, narrow waisted and a frame in perfect symmetry, indicative of superior strength. He was of dark complexion, with black piercing eyes and usu-ally wore his hair and moustache long. Sev. eral pieces of paper for small amounts, with his name attached, are in protest or have been paid y their endorsers, and now these latter gentlemen from the Eastern Shore are in hopes that Osman Pasha may get that share of the loot which will enable him to take these documents placed hithereto in the account of profit and loss.
